Long-term agreements, responsible social networking and tight integration into local production frameworks provide stability, sustainability and a secured future to farmers and workers.

A versatile and efficient plant, designed for tailor-made solutions and correlative batch sizes down to 6 tons. Procedural and product quality certifications comply with worldwide consumer health safety requirements.

An unpolluted environment within a virtually magic region: Bayas Del Sur is located in the Patagonia, where the Chilean central valley is said to be the world's best place to grow berries.

BDS makes the flavor of patagonia available in a vast variety of natural juice concentrates, aromas and essences. We open opportunities to develop exciting new flavors for truly innovative applications.

We strive to make the world's finest juice concentrates - and we have come pretty close.
